Claim Burning Bodies Of Hitler, Eva Braun Seen Following Suicide

From BUP and Bulletin Special Dispatches

GUAM, June 20.—The Sunday Okinawa campaign reached the "mopping up" stage today as American marines and doughboys kept on every direction hacking the last 2,000 or more Japanese on the "last stand" plateau into tiny, isolated pockets.

Trapped with their back to the sea, thousands of the Japanese leaped to their deaths from the 150 to 200 foot cliffs. Others were surrenders, but the most accurate count could be kept, and even more were being slain in their caves and foxholes, and Admiral Chester Nimitz announced that the end was in sight.

But even as the bloody campaign for Okinawa was nearing a triumphant end, American forces were preparing for the next assault, which will be led by the 1st Marine Division.

TRANSITS MASSED

Radio Tokyo reported more than 100 American transports riding at anchor in the Allied-held Naramata Roads, 45 miles west of Okinawa. Another big fleet was reported in Naha Bay, but Okinawa is anchored to the old well and said to be for new operations.

And while Tokyo radio commentators showed consternation at the news, the world of the Allied war preparations, they heard too that RAF heavy bombers had already arrived in the Pacific to add their contribution to the non-stop bombing raids planned for the immediate future. One American radio announcer this morning screamed a warning that an Allied task force had been sent to Yaku Jimi, an island only 45 miles from Japan's southernmost tip.

Two Allied task forces were

Claim Burning Bodies Of Hitler, Eva Braun Seen Following Suicide

From BUP and Bulletin Special Dispatches

HITLER'S VILLA, BERICHTSGADEFEN, June 20.—Two days after they were married in an underground bunker behind the Reichschancellery in Berlin, already a shattered and smoking ruin, Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun shot and killed themselves. This story was told today by a man who said saw their gasoline-soaked bodies burning after the suicide pair.

Now living in the grounds of Hitler's villa here, the Fuehrer's personal chauffeur, Erich Kempke, gave what correspondents say is the first eye-witness account bearing out the Nazi reports that Hitler died in Berlin shortly before he fell to the Red Army.

Kempke says he carried the bodies of Eva Braun from the bunker a little before 3 p.m. on April 30 after Hitler and his wife had killed themselves in an attempt to commit suicide on the night of May 1, the day before Berlin fell. Goebbel had been greatly shaken. Kempke said he was told to leave the villa.

HITLER, EVA MARRIED

—Hitler and Eva Braun, who long had been his mistress, were married by Werner von Braun, Swiss army chaplain, the propaganda minister.

Minister Lauds Rural Secretaries

Tribute to the work of municipal secretaries in carrying out the program of enlarged rural service which was laid by Hon. C. E. G. Shantz, minister of municipal affairs, in a brief address of welcome to a general refresher course in municipal administration in the medical buildings of the university Wednesday.

Municipal secretaries have in the past proved themselves equal to the task of carrying out the program involving as many as six districts in places.

Many novel methods were employed by secretaries as example being issuing of a news bulletin to the ratepayers of the district at the end of each month meeting giving details of business conducted by the council.

Other speakers at the opening of the course were Hon. W. E. H. Chaytor, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal and J. E. Browne, K.C., of Calgary.

At 75 delegates are attending. Some 400 deputy minister of municipal affairs are attending at the afternoon session.

There were no additional details.

Sask. Lieut.-Gov.

Is Dead at 69

REGINA, June 20.—(CP)—Thomas Miller, 69, lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan for the past four years, died in his home early today.

Mr. Miller, a former newspaperman in Moose Jaw, was appointed by the King's representative in the province last Feb. 27 on the retirement of E. F. McNab.

He was born in Grand Valley, Ont., in 1876, the son of James and Ann Miller, both natives of Ireland. His father was a weaver, pioneer and teacher in 1882 and working as a rail way section foreman for 27 years.

Mr. Miller was born in a miner's den and worked as a "miner's boy" in the old Namaqua Standard, and when he was only 17 was selected by the late Walter Scott to be the first manager of the Moose Jaw Times, bought by Mr. Scott in 1896.

He was long active in Liberal party activities and shortly before taking over his duties as lieutenant-governor was a member of the executive of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association.

Allowances and Pensions

The first Family Allowance cheques are to be sent out from the Dominion treasury early in July. More than 1,200,000 families are registered and will receive the allowance. Most of the applications came from families in Ontario, not Quebec. The latter province comes second on the list, and Saskatchewan third.

The principle of the scheme is that there should be no discrimination between the rich and the poor. But the rich will pay back the money through increased income taxes, while the poor will not. The end result is that those who need the money least are kept and the rest of the world cannot be safe unless it gets one.

About one in ten of the Japs accounted for in Okinawa have surrendered, and in Lucas, a thousand are giving up every second week.

The proportion who choose life instead of death is not large, but it is larger than in earlier stages of the war.

Enough larger to suggest that opportunity for a good deal to do with the choice a Jap makes.

Up to now, the Japs can get beyond the range of his office's machine-gun he hasn't a chance to surrender.

To most people it must seem plain that the same principle ought to apply to the payment of old age pensions. That would do away with the unnecessary and humiliating discrimination between the rich and the poor. The country saves nothing by compelling a person to plead poverty in order to get a pension. These payments—like the Family Allowance—ought to go to all who have reached the qualifying age. Those who did not need the money would return it through their income taxes.

V

The Service Vote

The returns from the service vote show that Canadians in uniform did their thinking along the same line as civilians on the question of whether the Government should be returned to power. They differed from civilian voters, however, as to which group should hold second place in the service line.

Counting the service vote only, the parliamentary line-up would be:

|---------------|----|
| Liberals | 99 |
| C.C.P. | 71 |
| Conservatives | 53 |
| Others | 22 |

The service voters in majority thus agreed with the civilian voters that the Conservatives should be returned to power. They would have made the C.C.P. the official opposition party, with the Liberals in third place. Comment is needless as to what the people in uniform thought of Mr. Braemar's theory that soldiers had three times as many officers as they had in the rest of the country during his beltling of the country's war effort.

In this election, unlike that of 1917, those in the armed forces voted for the candidates in their home ridings. Only in four constituencies did they reverse the decision of the civilian voters—Vancouver, B.C.; Prince Albert, Sask.; North Wellington, Ont.; Colchester-Hants, Nova Scotia.

As a result the Liberals lost two seats and gained two, leaving their standing unchanged. The Conservatives sustained a net loss of one seat and the C.C.P. gained one. The parliamentary standing of the parties thus is:

|---------------|-----|
| Liberals | 119 |
| Conservatives | 65 |
| C.C.P. | 25 |
| Ind. Lib. | 7 |
| Independents | 6 |
| Others | 18 |

The strength of the Government in parliament is unaffected by the service vote.

The spectacular feature of the returns is the defeat of Prime Minister King in Prince Albert, which he had continuously represented since 1922. There the service voters were solidly Conservative for Mr. King into a majority of 12 for his C.C.P. opponent. That the leader of a government should lose out in his own riding is not without precedent, and Mr. King is expected to seek election. Russell, through the resignation of the newly-elected member.

If so, the west will as a result of this upset lose a cabinet minister. It will also lose the distinction of counting the prime minister among its civilian constituents. But even the losers will be disappointed as is not likely for a government in power to offer an administration and leadership which would paralyze the national effort in meeting the problems of the post-war years.

Europe Needs a Keeper

Whatever the outcome, and whatever bearing the outcome may have on the ultimate settlement of the "Polish problem", the trials at Moscow are giving people in Canada and other distant lands an insight into the nature of racial distrust, dislike and suspicion that lies across the continent of Europe.

The Russo-Polish relations are not peculiar. Their like is to be found nearly everywhere. The Balkan peoples live in an atmosphere charged with latent hostility. France and Germany never trusted each other, and France has no illusions that Spain—"friendship" signifies anything more than military importance.

The first reaction of Canadians is of course gratitude that they live a long way from that simmering continent. But not longer is safety in distance, and interest in the fate of Europe is growing just because they are remote in mileage. Germany's attack on Poland was the overt act which caused 750,000 Canadians to get into uniform and drew the Dominion into a war which lasted five and a half years.

Whether it is or is not, hatreds and grudges and dredges are things we cannot dismiss as of no account to us. There is no longer such thing as national isolation, nor insulation. Twice in this generation Europe has compelled us to go to war.

That continent of disharmony is the main present reason why Canadians, and others in our far away parts of the globe, have to pin their hope to the world security movement and must give their active support to means to prevent war. Europe needs a keeper, and the rest of the world cannot be safe unless it gets one.

About one in ten of the Japs accounted for in Okinawa have surrendered, and in Lucas, a thousand are giving up every second week. The proportion who choose life instead of death is not large, but it is larger than in earlier stages of the war. Enough larger to suggest that opportunity for a good deal to do with the choice a Jap makes.

Up to now, the Japs can get beyond the range of his office's machine-gun he hasn't a chance to surrender.

John Hawley has charged with high treason what happened in a recent police court. That was the particular charge he hoped to evade, on the ground that he is now a citizen of a foreign country and was such when he broadcast Nazi propaganda over the Berlin radio. Perhaps these words—like the Family Allowance—ought to go to all who have reached the qualifying age. Those who did not need the money would return it through their income taxes.

Europe Needs a Keeper

Whatever the outcome, and whatever bearing the outcome may have on the ultimate settlement of the "Polish problem", the trials at Moscow are giving people in Canada and other distant lands an insight into the nature of racial distrust, dislike and suspicion that lies across the continent of Europe.

The Russo-Polish relations are not

Time to Begin Rebuilding Edmonton's Police Force

Too Much Slackness Under Wartime Conditions in Department

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The author is a nasty blow at every police force on the North American continent.

Police departments everywhere have been swelled by population and where a large guest population and where a large guest population makes more than a year's experience.

As a result, Edmonton's police force has fallen to an amateurish state.

There is much more honor in the branch than in the observance. But the police force is not enough, perhaps, to sustain the record.

Now it is time to commence repairing the force. The work should be made important enough to attract men who are not available.

It is more in the minor things, however, that the slackness becomes apparent.

There is a very great deal of carelessness driving on city streets.

There are corners in this city which are utterly impossible to drive through.

It is not the police supposed to do anything about it, particularly when the police are not available.

It is a very bad idea to have

TUESDAY night's affair down at the old ball yard could not be described as a good game by any possible stretch of imagination, but Arrows appear to be making a robbery out of stirring finishes these days.

That seven-run blast in the ninth against Dodgers was just one of the many cases of the crew tossed at the Yanks in the eighth frame of the Sunday session with Yanks.

Except for the fifth when he was nudged for a quartet of safeties, Lucius Hodges had progressed nicely with the Arrows, and in each of four, sixth, and seventh chances brought in all the Arrows were able to collect.

But after John McGill started that ninth-inning party with a single thing happened fast, with the Arrows' batsmen carrying the early grief for the Dodger chuck.

Dave Brockie, late Dodger, now Arrows' Captain, had the whole "business," his booming triple coming with the bags all out of order.

Taking one of the bags full can never be a pleasant prospect for any pitcher and that was the situation when Frank Finn, Frank Finn. Tommy pitched six successive balls before Brockie conceded that he had three sacks.

HERE AND THERE

CLARE HOLLIN GSWORTH'S Army and Navy Pats had the moment to be content with a tie in the first game window of the girls' football camp.

The Pats' coach, however, was in a research mood last night and perflite, or something. Six miles Bill (Pop) Pearson of Canyon City predicted the allies would sweep the Yanks to take the winter. The other day, after reading news accounts of air attacks on Japan, he said there would be no more flying. Pearson does not mean the veteran hockey and lacrosse that has weakened on the United States.

"Don't you read the papers?" he asks with a twinkle. "The Yanks' been burned down."

Joe Krolik the Windsor, London and Hamilton, Ont., backfield flash has developed a perfect front for his passing. He's perfect for a lacrosse gridiron genius, has a new job now selling fire extinguishers that have been the cause of customers among his football opponents . . . they always had trouble putting Joe out by natural means.

Around the circuit, the Pats' new team continues to mount in Ontario. Pitt. Lt. Tony Golab is back in Canada after 30 months with the RCAF. Ottawa Rough Riders already talk about the 1945 season, golden boy for the 1945 season.

Glen Wright and Mike Heideker, former Hamilton football stars, are a couple of Royal Canan Navy men looking forward to sport again, and Badminton fans were delighted by word that Phil Fife, the local star, had been paired with Doug Kennedy to win the Ontario doubles crown in 1945.

Zivic To Meet Green on Friday In Garden Bout

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
NEW YORK, June 20 (RUP)—Fritzie Zivic—leader of the five-time champions—has outscored their opponents 20 to 11 in the last 10 games, and made 11 less errors (90 to 61) in the 11 games played this month.

One more game has been added to the Pats' seven to date, but Zivic has outscored their opponents 10 to 7 in the last 10 games, and made 11 less errors (80 to 61) in the 11 games played this month.

He doesn't seem to limit his retirement to the time when he has a flight to make, because Fritzie has quit after victories just as often as he has after defeats.

He has not been able to limit where he even takes Fritzie seriously when he says he's going to hang up his glove, because he just can't stop fighting.

GREW UP FIGHTING

One very good reason for that is that the Pittsburgh lad is a born fighter. He was born a fighter, his father owned a restaurant, and his bar in Pittsburgh is a favorite for a boxer's training.

At present he is the armed forces' best boxer, and he is the most popular.

That gave Fritzie plenty of experience, and he has put it to good use through the years. He once held the heavyweight title, and has been a boxer for 10 years.

CINCINNATI, June 20—(AP)—A 13th inning single by catcher Al Unser drove in Al Widner with the run of the game, last night, to give Cincinnati Reds a 1-0 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

The single broke a 1-1 stand between "Red" Barrett and Joe Bowman, who came in to pitch the last of when a checked shutout ball for 12 Innings.

Until the 13th, Barrett, who came to St. Louis in the Marion Cooper trade, had the most brilliant run of his career, dropping the ball to the ninth.

The Braves saluted the General with a 3-2 victory in the first game, driven by Duck Custer and pinch-hitter Tom Tully.

Loyal Edmonton Regiment Men Welcomed by Former Commander

A large group of returning veterans of The Royal Edmonton Regiment on the Calgary train arriving here late Tuesday, had a real surprise when the train was held up to let on board James Riley Stone, DSO, MC, commanding officer of the regiment, a few days ago.

A former private in the battalion, Lt. Col. Stone was greeted boisterously by many of the battle-hardened veterans with whom he first served as a buddy and later as a leader.

The officer, who is now a major by Captain-Major W. J. Williams, of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion. There were 100 former Canadian Army servicemen in the party arriving in Edmonton Tuesday.

Several were from distinct points and remained in Edmonton overnight prior to taking train to their homes.

A large crowd of ex-service men were on hand to give the returning veterans on the CPR station.

A crowd of more than 700 relatives and friends were on hand to meet the troops. The campaigners who arrived Tuesday were the unofficial heralds of thousands of battle-hardened campaigners expected in the coming months, from all the war fronts.

WINNER — Wing Cmdr. Ross Gray, DFC and Bar of 102N 123 street who was one of the winners in a track and field competition held by the RCAF Lynx night intruder squadron overseas. Wing Cmdr. Gray, who is the squadron commanding officer, captured first place in a race event.

hardened campaigners expected in the coming months, from all the war fronts.

LONG SERVICE

Most of the troops had seen five years' service overseas. Some were seen by the German surrender brought them home for good. Others were from the Royal Canadian Engineers, Royal Canadian Artillery, and other regiments.

When the train roared into the packed station, anxious mothers, wives, and children pressed forward and the tanned, tony soldiers simply leaped from between the coaches into the waiting arms.

At the station were Acting Mayor C. E. Garipy, KC, and Mrs. Garipy, Mrs. W. C. Cuthbertson, Mrs. W. E. Paul, Mrs. W. G. Wainwright, Camrose and Thorby; Major E. D. Edson; light rail but roads OK; Lt. Col. J. B. D. Detours on Edmonton-Calgary highway still in effect.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE NEVER ELDRED
I am always seriously disturbed when I see a mother carrying her baby with them. That is never my intention. Being a mother, I understand well how one's intentions may be good, but the result of one's intentions is faulty. I try to be as understanding of the parental emotions, attitudes and confusions as I am of the child.

It is true I have little sympathy with the person who has only one answer to a misbehavior problem. Why should one try to condone her behavior? She does the easiest thing possible when at times she best expresses her own wrath in a situation over which she has lost control.

To my notion there is no thoughtfulness nor any desire to learn or improve when a parent condones or uses the "my intentions" line. The important word in that sentence is "constantly." The mother who yellingly and sternly, her way, through her children's infancy may hope the world will think she is a good mother, for she is not. She is not. I for one don't uphold her. She is not adding one whit to her stature when she claims that if she cannot do better than that.

Mrs. M. G. thinks I am harsh with "spankings" and I am. But is honest, confused, tries to analyze why it is that otherwise good mothers allow themselves to be drawn to such emotional explosions.

"Spankings and harshness with a young child are results of a lack of self-control," she writes.

But many mothers are guilty. Why?

I was unusually calm with my daughter when she was an infant and would look with horror at mothers who struck their children. Now, as she is growing up, I spanked my daughter on many occasions. Sometimes they were necessary, sometimes they were not. Had I retained my sense of humor or stopped to count I would have avoided the spanking.

It is true that I have a short temper. I have not any ugly disposition. I hate myself for corralling but at the same time I am not normal.

I think these trying days are responsible. We have our husbands overbearing, our children overactive. We are irritable when mail is irregular.

We have our children overactive, our husbands overbearing. We are irritable when mail is irregular.

The 20th-century stage is an unusually trying one. I am not trying to excuse myself, but there are such pressures on us all that we must give in.

Don't let the calling behavior complicate them. That obviously isn't fair to the child.

Our leaflet, "Obedience and Responsibility," has been stamped and stamped a self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Eldred in care of this newspaper.

MILITARY INFLUENCE—Simplicity of line is noticeable in Paris collections this spring. Robert Piquet features an afternoon dress in dark blue wool, left. Note the outside pouch pockets, forming a belt, and the contrasting hemline. Sophisticated afternoon dress in sheer yellow jersey, centre, is a Marcel Rochas creation. Molded effect at the hips is repeated in the sleeve. Hostos goes in black crepe with white crepe incrusted to accent full sleeves, another Rochas design.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Consider Your In-Laws Before Getting Married

Families of Prospective Mates Should Be Investigated Carefully If Couple Want Happiness

Without Interference

If all young people who are contemplating matrimony would spend a month with the family of their prospective mate before they took each other for better or worse, then would be better weddings, and less divorce.

It is not unusual for a man to be unusually trying one. I am not trying to excuse myself, but there are such pressures on us all that we must give in.

OPTIMISM IS FOLLY

These optimistic youngsters excuse their lack of precaution in getting married by saying, "Oh, Sally has or what kind of a father John possesses in time to come." They are not thinking of the saying, "Oh, well, we'll make the family."

Socialists Attack Italo Government

ROME, June 26 (AP)—Pietro Patti, new Italian premier, has completed a government after two days of consultations. It was announced last night, but his cabinet immediately came under attack from the Socialist party.

Patti, a member of two vice-premiers Pietro Nenni, Socialist leader who recently was arrested by Allied military authorities for making an unorthodox political speech in Northern Italy, and also chose Socialists for the ministerial posts of agriculture and war.

However, Sandro Pertini, Socialist party secretary for northern Italy, asserted "the solution of the political crisis is not final. We accept it only out of love for harmony and so that the Italian people may so have a government. We do not accept it because it continues to struggle so that the working class will assume in political leadership of the country the place it deserves." V.

Dynamite Suicide
